3.1	Ralston Residents	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/4/18, 1/5/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	A metra bus pulled up in front of Ralston Towers over several hours to load residents bound for a local hotel. It's a temporary fix to the lack of heat and hot water that has many residents seeing red. John Hudgison, Director of Inspections and Codes for Columbus, tells News Three the steps management has taken to address the issues. John Hudgison: "Currently, the owner is providing space heaters and we've also gone an extra step and the owner is also providing hotel rooms for them to stay at." Nikita Nichols lives at Ralston Towers and while she says her experience has been different, she agrees that there are major problems in the building. Nikita Nichols: "I am a resident here and fortunately I have heat in my unit. The heating is working sporadically throughout the building. Bottom line: the entire unit needs to be replace." So what's standing in the way of a permanent fix to the problems at Ralston? John Hudgison: "The new management staff we've worked with has been good to a point, but some things are out of their hands. Major maintenance issues like this is just something their maintenance crew is not able to handle." Taking it a step further... Hudgison says his conversatin with the owners have been... John Hudgison: "...short and sweet. We just kinda get to the point where they know what the issues are - this is what we expect of them. Hopefully, this deadline gives them another chance to get this right." Which is what the residents at the Ralston, many of who are elderly and or living with medical conditions are asking of management. Nikita Nichols: "I'm comfortable...fortunately, but I do feel anyone who has to face this cold tonight and I do hope and pray that they can all find shelter.
3.1	Ralston Presentation	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/9/18, 1/10/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	We have an update for you on a Columbus apartment complex that's been under scrutiny for more than a year... Representatives for the Ralston Towers will soon go before a judge to defend the property against two dozen safety code violations. The Columbus Office of Building Inspectins and Code is monitoring the Ralston for a laundry list of issues. From outdated fire alarms to un-liveable units without proper heating and air conditioning. The inspections and code director brought his findings before city council today. He says the property is contantly balancing on the brink between coming into compliance and being shut down.

3.1	Metra Changes	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/10/18, 1/11/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, New 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	The results are in -- and some Columbus bus routes may soon feel the heat. Last year, Metra added new lines and extended hours -- per customer requests. Tuesday, the transit system brought a year's worth of research before city council. Rosa Evans, Director - Department of Transportation, Metra Transit System: "There are a couple of routes that are really underperforming, that recommendations -- based on ridership numbers, based on the data that we have collected -- we're recommending to discontinue." I decided to hop on one of the routes under review -- line 8 that serves the Columbus Public Library to the Government Center. Tiki Wyatt says she hasn't been driving for route 8 for very long, but it hasn't been noticeable difference. Tiki Wyatt, Metra Driver: "Other routes you're either picking someone up or dropping someone off at every other stop or so. This route I could probably drive all the way to the library and won't pick anybody up, and maybe on the back I'll pick up one person. And we passed plenty of empty stops. Reporter: "We've been on for about an hour. Driver: "Yup, on the way back haven't picked up anybody." Still... vacant seats to go around... until finally. Driver: "Oh! We may have someone!" That someone -- a route 8 regular who says he relies on the bus five days a week. Reginald Taylor, Metra Rider: "I work at the library and this route goes directly to the library and that's a major plus for me, because I have no means of transportation and I don't like to walk. He adds he doesn't think he'd be the only one sad to see route 8 go. Reginald Taylor, Metra Rider: "I wouldn't cut this route, it's a good route. I mean if you take a look at everything we just passed, can't beat it." And Metra wants to hear from its riders before making any changes. Rosa Evans: "Once we collect all the data... it will go through the process with council before any decisions are made."

3.1	Roe vs Wade Protest	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/22/18, 1/23/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	This weekend, hundreds gathered across the county to march for women's rights. Monday -- On the 45th anniversary of Roe v. Wade -- anti-abortion demonstrators gathered in Columbus to express their Own view of how to support women. Curtis Clark, D.O., St. Francis Columbus Clinic: "They need support. They need to know that there are other options that are life affirming options, that will make them feel much more fulfilled in life without going through this procedure and this." But just across the street -- pro choice demonstrators say they believe the best way to support a woman is to support her choices. Patricia Lassiter, Pro-Choice Demonstrator: "We are standing up for established law, and we're making sure this law is enforced so that women can control their own bodies." The pro-life demonstrators set up a similar protest every year on the Roe v. Wade ruling anniversary. They tell me they do want a change to the law and to raise awareness for pregnancy resources in the Chattahoochee Valley. Laura Kirchgraber, Pro Life Demonstrator: "A lot of them are making that choice not because they want to or because someone's forcing them to, but because they just don't feel they have any other choices so if we as a community can value life from conception and support those women we can together save a lot of lives." On the pro-choice side of the street, they tell me instead of changing an abortion law long since settled, it's time to move onto issues still plaguing female equality. Steven Gill, Pro-Choice Demonstrator: "These issues should be settled, it should be done. We should move forward to gender equality, equal pay, fairness in the workplace, for women to realize their full potential." Those on both sides say they will continue voicing their stances as long as the other sides does.
3.1	Homeless Count	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/22/18, 1/23/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Pat /Frey, Executive Director of Home for Good: "We've seen a decrease in homelessness. In just the last five years, we've seen a 24 percent decrease in homelessness." That's Pat Frey - Executive Director of Home for Good - a branch of the United Way of the Chattahoochee Valley. Organizers visited four shelters: including House of Mercy. They had those living in the shelters - complet a survey. Pat Frey: "By answering the questions to the survey we can assess needs and barriers to housing so that we can try and align the needs of the individual with the services and the providers that can provide those." The point in time count - first began in 2009. She says there's a great need to carry out effort like these - because of the high amounts of people living in shelters.
3.1	Valley Rescue New Facility	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/31/18, 2/1/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	New at 6 tonight... a big announcement from Valley Rescue Mission today. The organization will be opening a new facility that will serve as a safehaven for women and children that are homeless... due in large part to drug addicition or domestic violence. Damascus Way currently serves as a shelter for women and children... but more than 200 people in need are turned away each month due to a lack of space. the new facility will double the amount of available beds for those in need.

3.1	GDOT Road Problems	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/17/18, 1/18/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	These are the road conditions that many in the Chattahoochee Valley woke up to this morning. To say that it was not an ordinary day in the valley would be an understatement. The combination of snow, ice and freezing temperatures mad many roads and bridges impassable and those who braved the roads, like John Coker, advise others against it. John Coker: "It's pretty slick coming from Marion County. A bunch of eighteen wheelers slid off the road. It's kinda rough. It's slick out here, it ain't no joke. It's nothing to play with. It's very dangerous. Dont' nobody need to be out here if you ain't gotta be."
3.1	Lee County Railroad Work	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/24/18, 1/25/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Prince Wade/Phenix City Citizen: "I was driving over it, my car bumpy, hit the bottom, pretty much tearing the bottom out of my car." An experience many folks in Phenix City say they share. Due to the recent construction on local railroad crossings. Lee County Commissioner Rober Ham says the Norfolk Southern Railroad Company owns the property. He reach out to them for some answers. Robert Ham: "I talked to the railroad about the phone calls I received and they were very much aware of the issues there. And they were very much apologetic, and they told me they really felt like they dropped the ball here."
3.1	Warming Shelter	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/1/18, 1/2/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	For the past seven years, Safe House Ministries has been an invaluable resource to the homeless and less fortunate - often providing meals and shelter from the cold. Charles Jeffries, Case Manager of Safe House was once on the receiving end of the services he now extends to others. Charles Jeffries: "I was once in this position and the ministry is what got me back on track. The Lord God Almighty just drew me here to do what I'm doing." For the staff at Safe House, giving back is more than a job. It's an extension of their faith - a living example of the more you give, the more he gives to you.
3.1	N3N First Baptist Church History	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/15/18, 1/16/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	"The picture on the front of the book shows a baptism on the Chattahoochee. Local artist Bucky Bowles did that original art for the front of the book. And we felt like that kind of carried the idea os who we haven been as a people through the years all the way through." The book took two years to research and write. Richard Hyatt is the author. He's also a member of the church. "I wan't just a hired hand with a laptop. These are my people." Richard says his job was made easier thanks to the church's extensive archives. "We actually had as many old pictures as probably we did contemporary. So it was exciting to uncover those things. I would call Jimmy Elder and say, gues what I found today? And he was kind of my sounding board. If he was impressed or excited, I thought we were on the right track."

3.1	Ralston Update	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	2/21/18, 2/22/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	An update tonight on the ongoing issues at Ralston Towers Apartments. The owners are in the clear for now after they scraped through a hearing this morning. The Ralston reps appeared before a judge to present evidence that they have fixed the heat systems in 24 units which were not working during some of the coldest days of the year. The judge found the building in compliance and issued a 250 dollar citation. The inspection and codes director says resident complaints are crucial to addressing the building's issues.
3.1	Great Wolf Lodge Peek	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.	3/7/18, 3/8/18	90 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	As you can hear, construction crews are hard at work at the Great Wolf Lodge construction site in LaGrange. The park is less than two months from opening and if things keep going this well, they might open their doors a little early. In just four months since the first Great Wolf Lodge Georgia Tour in October, the resort has taken shape. It could be a flagship for the company. Crews have been manning all hours setting up more than 400 hotel suites and family favorites; however, the 170-million dollar LaGrange investment includes several Georgia exclusives. The resort will have all new dining all concepts, two water slides never seen before in North America, and the new Camp Howl education center where kids can play and learn about the environment while parents can escape to an adults only bar and grill.
3.1	Ann Hardman Passed Away	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	3/19/18, 3/20/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Bishop Ann Hardman lived her life to hear one phrase, "Well done, my good and faithful servant." Even though her body is gone - her legacy will live on. Doctor Bishop Hardman's husband, Doctor Norman Hardman, says his wife was ready to go. "As far as with her sould is concerned, she was ready. Her spirit was ready to be with the Lord. Her emotions didn't want to carry her away because she hadn't seen her grandchildren grown or seen the things she wanted to accomplish with them." Hardman says his wife was not fearful of dying because of the way she lived. "As she lived her life, she exuded fromherself those things that causes her to live on. It's like this, if when you die, everything about you dies, it's as if you never lived." And she lives on through Doctor Sandra Anderson. A fellow Paster and mentee. "I found favor with her. I didn't hve to run behind her. She called me out of nowhere. I worked closely with her, I walked closely with her. I worked for her. She showed my entire family favor."

3.1	What Happens to Victoryland	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	3/26/18, 3/27/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Elizabeth White reporting - Milton McGregor's larger than life personality and his famous catch phrase, "You can be a winner, too." at one point drew millions of people to Shorter, Alabama's Victoryland casino." Lawrence Haygood/Tuskegee Mayor: "I've known him for at least 20 years." He describes Milton as a shrewd yet generous businessman who adored people and never shied away from a political or legal fight promoting Alabama gambling. Hardie Duncan/Victoryland player: "He brought a lot of money here when I say money I mean jobs - he gave people a chance - he didn't have to - he could have gone anywhere - but he put it here." McGregor is survived by his wife, two children and seven grandchildren. We are told a private memorial service is being planned.
3.1	Distracted Driving Bill	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	3/28/18, 3/29/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Texting, GPS, Phone calls -- anything that takes your eyes off the road for a second could add your name to the list of thousands injured or killed every year by distracted driving. Caroline Rowell, Local resident: "I was in a wreck recently in December on Bradly Park and she never even saw me, because she was distracted by her phone." CPD officers conducted two of their regular distracted driving strings Weds morning - posing as construction workers to catch unsuspecting violaters. But despite all their effort -- a Cols motor squad lieutenant says officers still face difficulty. Lt. Dent, CPD: "The biggest challenge would be being able to illustrate exactly what a person was doing whether they were checking email, whether they were using the GPS and taking their attention away from the road.
3.1	CPD Active Training	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	3/29/18, 3/30/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Cols police and clergy tell me unfortunately the times they are a changing. Rev. Donavon Coley, Forest Part Baptist Church: "We would have never thought in our lifetime that we would have to be threatened by guns, knives or violence in church or even at work or school" Lt. Tim Wynn, CPD Training Division: "When I first started down here 30 yrs ago, these sorts of things were unheard of, active shooters." With the changes, Lt. Wynn helps conduct a CPD Active Shooter Response Training Seminar to help local churches improve their security.
3.1	Bibb Pond Search	6 p.m., 11 p.m.	3/30/18, 3/31/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Just beneath this surface, Cols Fire Chief Watson says the currents can be vicious. People familiar with the Chattahoochee River and recreation concur. Will Chambliss/Whitewater Express: "Now keep in mind also, that the river current is moving quite rapidly so even if the pools are elevated and it looks, all things looking, it may look like a lake, at certain sections of the Chattahoochee, but the river can be moving quite rapidly." The rapids - the rocky bottom - the changing landscape - all create an environment that requires extra safety precautions. Will Chambliss: "I recommend always, if you're near the water, whether you're a great swimmer, weak swimmer, anything, if you are near the water, you need a PFD."

3.1	First Columbus Homicide	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	1/1/18; 1/2/18	90 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, New 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	While the east coast was busy ringing in the new year... Colorado Street in Columbus started off 2018 with the ring of gunshots. Columbus Police say 63 year old Nancy Johnson was killed and her 44 year old daughter Gloria Johnson was hurt at around 12:30 a.m. Monday. Hours later, friends and family gathered in Nancy's home to mourn. Vivian Satterwhite, friend of late Nancy Johnson: "She was a nice person, she helped everyone, and she did what she could for them. She was there for me. When my mama passed she was there for me." Friends tell me just before the shooting, this house was full of guests for a New Year's Eve celebration. That is until one party goer - who they say they know well -- started to spoil the celebrations. Katie Williams, friend of late Nancy Johnson: "He came in, the first time he was okay. The second time he was okay. The third time, I don't know what was wrong with him, but he was just acting weird." Williams says there was no warning before the shooting. She says the man just went outside and the next thing they knew -- he had a gun. Katie Williams, friend of late Nancy Johnson: "She was standing in the door, and he shot her and then he went and then her daughter ran out the door and he shot her too." Many in the home struggled to find words amid their loss. Lamar Johnson, victim's son: "I feel hurt... I want... I want him... locked up." Others -- while they didn't want to be on camera -- still couldn't contain their feelings. Off camera: "He came to her house and killed her in her house. He ought to go to jail for life. Who gets to do the lethal injection? Because I want to punch him with the needle." Off Camera: "I wanna murder him."

3.1	Second Pawn Shop Suspect in Court	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	1/3/18, 1/4/18	45 seconds, 90 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Marguiell Wilson appeared in court Wednesday morning just days after having his leg amputated. Police say Wilson was injured back on December 20 during a shoot-out with store employees at the Columbus Pawn on Fort Benning Road. Wilson plead not guilty to murdering store clerk, Joseph Johnson. A police officer testified Wilson was given a choice -- call a lawyer or tell police what happened. Sgt. Anthony Locey: "Mr. Wilson stated it was a planned robbery between him and "Chop", who he referred to as "Chop", which was Quintavis Williams nickname, "Porkchop". He did also admit to shooting Joseph Johnson and the second employee." The officer said Wilson was also identified by evidence and surveillance video from the scene. Lawyer: "You were able to identify my client by his clothing? What kind of clothing was he wearing?" Sgt. Anthony Locey: "He was wearing a sweatshirt with some writing on it, a backpack with different coloring on it, you could also see his face clearly." Wilson's girlfriend of three years says she was shocked to hear he confessed to the crime. "I don't know what mad him do that, but..." Chakeria Jackson, suspect Marquiell Wilson's girlfriend: "It hurts a lot because I been with him for so long and you know he doesn't have a bad record, never been to jail, never got locked up. You know none of that, and it hurts to know that, you know, he's gone like that." Jackson says she will work to get Wilson an attorney now that the case is bound for superior court.
3.1	LaGrange Infant Death	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	1/11/18, 1/12/18	90 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Sgt. Kirby: "It's a sad situation, the entire story is a situation." A sad situation indeed as LaGrange Police continue to investigate the death of a 3-month-old baby girl. It was here at the Town and Country Motel on New Franklin Road where police initially responded to what they thought was a fight in one of the rooms around 8:30 p.m. January 3. Sgt. Robert Kirby, LaGrange Police Department: "The ruckus that was being heard was actually... They were throwing things around trying to find a cell phone." Parents 27-year-old Jonathan Pruitt and 25-year-old Kaleigh Pruitt were reportedly trying to call 911 after they noticed their youngest daughter wasn't breathing. But when officers made it inside the motel room -- they discovered a whole new problem. Sgt. Kirby: "There was a lot of clutter and filth around the room I would say... And again condicions were not suitable for children in the room. The three month old baby was pronounced deceased. Both parents were taken into custody and their remaining son and daughter were removed to protective care. Sgt. Kirby: "It's always sad for the police department or DFACS to have to take children away from their parents, but sometimes that's the best answer to ensure the children are kept safe." Now, police are waiting for an autopsy report from GBI to see what caused the baby girl's death and if her parents will face additional charges. Sgt. Kirby: "The deplorable conditions and the death may or many not be related, that's why we're really counting on the autopsy."

3.1	Wickham Drive Murder	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	1/25/18, 1/26/18	90 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Laquanda Brown, victim's mother: "Now, she's gone and they don't have anybody else to look up to. She was their big sister." Late Wednesday night, this South Columbus street was awakened by deadly gunshots. Police say Lashay Ford died at midtown Medical Center just after 11 p.m. Now, her mother says she is struggling to face life without her. Laquanda Brown, victim's mother: "My daughter was my best friend and I will never find a friend like that again ever in life" Happy memories mixed with the regret for things her daughter will never live to see. Laquanda Brown, victim's mother: "She will never get to experience love or children and I will never get to experience that with her, because she's gone now at 24 years old." She tells me she also struggles to accept that it was her cousin who allegedly shot her daughter. Laquanda Brown, victim's mother: "Don't know how to feel right now. Somebody I really love did this to her and she loved him dearly, too." Police say they are looking for information on 36 year old Dewayne Jones who is wanted in Lashay's murder. Laquanda says in the middle of this tough time, she still has a message for Jones. Laquanda Brown, victim's mother: "Don't hurt yourself. I still love you, Dewayne. I know you didn't mean to do this, but it's over now. It's over. Turn yourself in."
3.1	Upatoi Trial Preview	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	1/26/18, 1/27/18	90 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Monday, a superior court courtroom like the one I'm standing in now, will be completely full with a judge, attorneys and several dozen potential jurors to begin the first steps in a gruesome 2016 triple murder trial." Buddy Bryan, Muscogee County Coroner: "That was one of the most brutal scenes I've had the opportunity... the unfortunate opportunity to work." January 4, 2016, a usually peaceful neighborhood in Upatoi was that day surrounded by law enforcement investigating a gruesome triple murder. Gloria Short, her teenage son Caleb Short, and her granddaughter Giannie Lindsey were found slain in Gloria's home, her cars were stolen and the community was left in shock. Galo Andrade, neighbor, son was a friend of Caleb Short: "He used to come and play video games in my son's room. He was just a good kid." Police later identified, arrested and charged three suspects -- Jervarceay Tapley, Raheem Gibson and Rufus Burks. During their preliminary appearances in court, police say through several confidential sources, they identified Burks and Tapley as the two allegedly inside the Bentley Drive home during the burglary and murders while Gibson reportedly stood as a lookout. All three remain in jail under one million dollar bonds each for murder, kidnapping, burglary, and several other charges. Defense attorneys in October claimed to have strong cases for their clients. Jennifer Curry/Defense Attorney for Rufus Burks: "Every witness statement, every piece of evidence, DNA, fingerprints everything we have up to this point distances Mr. Burks from this horrific crime." Mark Shelnutt, Attorney for Raheem Gibson: "Was not involved in any way shape or form of any kind of injuring anybody...nor taking place in any kind of burglary." The trial was postponed until January 29 after the prosecution announced the discovery of a mountain of new evidence. The victims' family members told News 3 that they were eager to begin and get closure. Shameika Averett, Giannie Lindsey's mother: "The healing process is very hard because I walk past my daughter's room every single day and I'm reminded that we have to get justice for her, my mom and my brother." State prosecutors tell me they plan to work through the weekend to prepare their materials for Monday. Both the prosecution and the defense expect the jury selection process to take longer than usual since the community is familiar with this case. Mikhaela Singleton reporting: "News 3 will be in the courtroom starting with jury selection Monday, and we will remain on the case through its duration. On your side in Columbus, Mikhaela Singleton, WRBL News 3."

3.1	Upatoi Update	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	1/30/18, 1/31/18	90 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Mikhaela reporting: "The doors are once again shut on another emotional day in Upatoi 2016 triple murder case. Jury selection and questioning continued today, but was halted by one defendant's second change of heart." 19 year old Jervarceay Tapley decided Tuesday to once again plead guilty to three counts of malice murder in the deaths of Gloria Short, Caleb Short and Gianna Lindsay. Tapley and 21 year old Raheam Gibson were set to plead Monday, but Tapley abruptly changed his mind on the stand. Now that he has finalized his guilty plea, he will be sentenced March 22 following a pre-sentencing investigation. Tapley's lawyer says his client was scared and pressured by the weight of the crime and needed time to accept guilt. The victims' family members say they are relieved Tapley has taken responsibility as he was once very close to the family as a friend of Caleb's. Gibson's plea will be conditional upon his testimony against 17 year old Rufus Burks who now sits as the only defendant. Mikhaela reporting: "Several more potential jurors were dismissed and the rest will return for questioning Wednesday morning. Judge McBride says the tentative plan is to have jury selection finished by Friday with the first day of trial starting Monday morning. On Your Side in Columbus, Mikhaela Singleton, WRBL News 3."

Sheriff Jay Jones/Lee County Sheriff's Office: "her son had called her and made some threats and of course the next call we received shortly after was that a shooting had taken place." Continuing investigation revealed, this residence had a history. Jay Jones: "The investigation at this point has revealed at least six different times that we've responded to the residence in regards to some type of domestic disturbance. Indications are the same parties were involved. 23 year old Robert Woods is reported to have forced his way in the Lee Road 229 home, where his life ended with a 38 caliber gun, one shot to the stomach -- another to the chest. His mother was taken into custody and has since been released. Sheriff Jay Jones: "She is cooperating with investigators at this point of the investigation. And no charges, no formal charges have been filed as of yet. And self-defense may be the case... Sheriff Jay Jones: "We are looking at all elements involved in what occurred yesterday, that's just one aspect that could play into the circumstances, but nothing and I repeat nothing has been determined specifically in that regard." Sheriff Jones adds regardless of what the investigation reveals -- all information will be presented to a grand jury at a future date.

Opening statements begin Monday now that questioning has come to a close." The panel of qualified jurors will return to this courtroom Friday when it will be announce which 12 and 4 alternates will be called to sit on the jury. The prosecution and defense chose their impartial jurors based on their answers during questions such as can you accept testimony from co-defendant 21 year old Raheam Gibson, who accepted a deal to plead guilty in exchange for taking the stand against 17 year old Rufus Burks - who now sits as the only defendant going to trial. Potential jurors were also asked about how much media coverage and social media comments they've seen about the case. Defense Attorney Jennifer Curry took the podium to claim the court of public opinion online had already convicted Burks and his co-defendants Gibson and 19 year old Jervarceay. She asked Judge Gil McBride for change of venue again, but the judge denied her request.

It's been a long week of negotiation, questioning, and plea agreements to make it to this point. The prosecution and defense agreed on 9 men and 7 women - with 7 of those jurors being African-American and 9 Caucasian. This after four days of rigorous questioning. Jurors were asked everything from where do you live to can you be impartial to co-defendant getting a plea deal in exchange for testimony. 21 year Raheem Gibson will be one of the first 10 witnesses for the prosecution testifying against 17 year old Rufus Burks - the only remaining defendant going to trial. 19 year Jervarceay Tapley was also set to plead guilty without a deal on the first day of questioning, January 29 - but he suddenly changed his mind on the stand. Judge Gil McBride: "I need to make sure that you have not been forced, and that you understand that you have an absolute right to go to trial. You are pleading guilty because you are one of the persons who committed this crime, is that right?" Tapley: "Uh, no sir. I would appreciate y'all taking me to trial, sir." However, the next day, Tapley changed his mind again and pleaded guilty to three counts of malice murder.

If passed - the bill would do away with all gun permit requirements in the Yellowhammer state. Sheriff Heath Taylor, Russell County Sheriff's Office: "The Alabama Sheriff's Association has been fighting this bill because we believe as public safety officials that it's a public safety issue to not having somebody vetting who's carrying a weapon in public." Members of the Alabama Sheriff's Assc say residents can now take advantage of the open carry law. This allows residents to carry a gun in the open - on public land or on private property with permission. Authorities say if Senat Bill Three passes it could jeopardize other gun guidelines - now in place - including the concealed weapons permit. This requires gun-holders to have a permit - to travel with a loaded gun in their car.

Derek Robbins - The Sheriff in Boyle County Kentucky explains the dramatic events that led up to the car burning. "A female called for help saying she had been assaulted when the deputy arrived the investigator had actually found out she had been kidnapped after she had dropped her child off." Sheriff Robbins says that the incident happened at a daycare in Boyle County Tuesday morning. He says from there the chaos grew. "He'd come out from behind the building... attacking her and assaulting her and put her in the van and took off with him." Police say Smith had plans to travel an hour away to another city in Kentucky - this before the unthinkable happened. "When they had turned on to the bypass she was able to jump from the vehicle while it was moving and he continued and didn't stop." Sheriff Robbins says his office monitored Smith's activity for about a month because of domestic violence issues with the victim. He says as part of an agreement with sheriff's office, the suspect and the victim were not supposed to have contact with one another.

For years, the anti-retroviral drugs he was taking managed his HIV but (his family says) that all changed once he entered the Muscogee County Jail last July. Veronica Scott: "My brother has HIV for twenty-two years. He hasn't had his meds...his chronic care medicine since July...ever since he's been incarcerated. In October he told me that he did a grievance and still has not received medicine or anything." Standing here with another brother for support, says her inmate brother's health is deteriorating by the day, with night sweats and rashes occurring frequently, and significant drop in his CD4 count resulting in an AIDS diagnosis. HIV Advocate and District Seven City Council Candidate, Jeremy Hobbs, says the inmate's health is at a critical level. Jeremy: "If he got a simple staph infection in there, it could kill him. If he got a simple cold or the flu in there it could drive hi down to kill him. And the time he gets doctor care it may be too late."

Brookstone School's Chairman of the board of trustees -- says talks of enacting a drug testing policy - started five years ago. Jason Branch: "From that point in time, we have continued to follow the issues, do research, contemplate what is our role as a school? What can we do to help protect our children?" The school decided on voluntary hair testing for 2018 school year. Then, in the 2019 year, students will be randomly selected for a mandatory drug screen - taking a strand of the students hair to test for drug use. If a student tests positive, the parent is notified and resources are provided to help the child stop using. Marty Lester/Head of School: "We don't look at this being a discipline problem. We look at it as being a public health problem." Lester says students are already taught the dangers of drug abuse. This testing is just an additional step to promote healthy behavior. Marty Lester: "My previous school, we had a similar program and had it for 12 years, and I saw it make a real difference in the lives of students. And I wanted that very much here for our students at Brookstone." And he says -- parents are on board with it... Marty Lester: "Right now, the response has been overwhelmingly positive. Whether it's been phone calls, emails or texts, we've been very pleased with the response."

Chance Corbett: "Having a plan in place and making sure people know about the plan, and what's in the plan, it goes a long way to lessening the impact of what's going to happen. Corbett is the interim executive director for campus safety at Auburn University. He's taught around 30,000 people performing exercises to reiterate the importance of better techniques. He says safety plans should go beyond locking doors. Turning out the lights and hiding under desks. "knock-knock--- where you at? where are you?" He says... look for ways to escape first -- if that's not an option -- barricade the doors with whatever you can find... and in some cases fight back -- by either throwing things or working as a team... Chance Corbett: "We give them the reason why they are doing that, they're distracting the person, they are disrupting their ability to make a conscience decision to shoot or to throw, or whatever they're doing, so we disrupt those actions and then if they're in your space, you're going to have to eventually get away from them or you're going to have to fight back."

That ws Gary Colley - sharing this thoughts on what he calls - excessive criminal activity - in the area of the Rhythm and Blues Sports Bar in Cusseta. Colley says he lives across the street. He tells News 3 - during the time of the early Sunday morning - deadly club shooting - he ws in bed. Gary Colley: "When my wife woke me up I counted nine... don't know how many was before that... she said maybe 15." According to the Lee County Sheriff's Office, 28 year old Tamichael Jones was and killed. Police say the shooting happened during a privated party. Lee County Sheriff Jay Jones says since Septemer 2017, there have been efforts to to close down the club. Lee County Sheriff Jay Jones: "Appela has been filed on behalf of the club which allows for judicial review at this point so were still pending due process... My point being... we have been in the process of trying to shut this club down." John Dean also lives near the club. He explains why he believes the club is so dangerous. John Dean: "Anytime you begin to bring strangers in from outside that aren't concerned about anything but themselves and their own party habits or tactics or whatever they really don't care about the people who live here." Lee County Coroner Bill Harris says the club shooting was one of four deaths that happened in the are over the weekend. He has a message for the community - in an effort to put an end to tragedy. Coroner Bill Harris, Lee County: "Be careful out ther, watch your surroundings and think about what you do before you do it. Praying for a verdict and praying for closure. Shameika Averett, mother of Gianna Lindsey: "It's been very hard. It's been very stressful. It's been like and up and down roller coaster." After nearly a week of deliberations, the jury finally announced its verdict finding the last remaining defendant, 17 year old Rufus Burks, guilty on one count each of felony murder, kidnapping, burglary and two counts of auto theft. However, the jury could not agree on the charges of malice murder and the remaining two felony murder charges. Burks sat, without moving a muscle, as the verdict was read. Jennifer Curry, Defense Attorney for Rufus Burks: "He's still a kid, he's been incarcerated since he was 15, and he didn't have any reaction to the verdict. I don't know if he really understands the verdict, I really don't." Prosecutors say this case was a challenge for them. Aloza Whitaker, Chief Assistant District Attorney: "Three weeks of court is physically and emotionally draining for not only the family but the attorneys." Christopher Williams, Assistant DA: "I think for me, it's the brutal nature of what occurred." Now, they must decide if they will take Burks to trial again for the remaining charges. Alonza Whitaker: "We will be meeting with the family and discussing the option they want to go through." But Burks' Defense Attorney Jennifer Curry tells me she believes even the charges announced in the verdict were not fairly decided. Jennifer Curry: "I will file the motion for a new trial, that's the first step in the appeals process. We certainly don't feel the evidence was there to support that felony murder charge, or even the kidnapping." Police say she was shot in the head. Lt. Dale Strickland, LaGrange Police Dept: "The information first came in that an individual had accidentally shot themselves." Neighbor: "Why is the gun even available for the child to even get?" Police say this shooting investigation is in its early stages. They say they're working to learn how exactly the child was shot but they do confirm the shooting appears to be accidental. Meantime, neighbors tell me their concerns with guns being in homes where children live. Krystal Smith, Neighbor: "I'm a parent of four. Guns are good for protection but you also gotta have it in a safe spot for kids...especially if you have small kids around the house cuz anything can happen." Police say there were also two other children inside the home at the time of the shooting. According to CEO of the LaGrange Housing Authority, one of them was as young as two years old. Police say the mother, Gabrielle Knight, was also home. They say it's not yet clear whether she will face any charges in this case. Neighbors tell me Monday's incident isn't typical for the complex. Neighbors: "A whole bunch of sirens... Detectives and everybody came out...horrible..Reporter: you had to unfortunately start your day with gunshots and crying things of that nature...no one should have to start their day like that...what was going through your mind when all of that was happening? For city leaders like Mayor Tomlinson, this is a positive step forward, especially for cities like Columbus where 34 out of the 35 murders committed in 2017 involved a gun. Teresa Tomlinson: "He's looking for solutions, too. I think if someone who was so heavily funded by the NRA and so supportive of the NRA is looking for these types of solutions, I think we're in a place where there just might be a result that we might agree on." However, a local gun store owner disagrees - calling President Trump's change of heart... a betrayal." John McMullen, Owner, Shooters of Columbus Indoor Range and Gunshop: "As far as I'm concerned based on his statements so far he is abandoning the people that elected him. You know the gun owners of America, the NRA, we're just normal people. Fighting the NRA which is the great little watch word people are using now is really an assenine statement." Both Mayor Tomlinson and McMullen agree there needs to be a change in mental health care but their agreements stop there. Tomlinson: "No one needs war weapons, no one needs assault rifles. I mean most of these things are just obvious." John McMullen: "I challenge Tomlinson on that, none of these guns on the rack behind me have ever committed a crime."

Columbus Police say McClam was driving 84 in a 35 mph zone - with five more passengers in his vehicle. They say one of those juveniles is still in the hospital as well as Hollis. Hollis's neighbor says he is getting better but is still unable to talk. According to police reports and court documents -- McClam has a slew of prior charges dating back to 2016 including charges from Opelika where OPD say he and eight others were arrested on burglary and theft charges. Some of those cases are still open. In June 2017, McClam was charged with reckless conduct -- criminal damage to property -- and obstructing of law enforcement officers. Superior Court documents show he posted bail. The next open case is from November -- where he was charged with criminal trespassing and misdemeanor theft. Then on January 16 -- McClam was charged with statutory rape and furnishing obscene materials to minors. Now, CPD are looking for McClam on several charges -- including vehicular homicide. "Mr. McClam is considered dangerous due to his lengthy alleged criminal activity and arrests in the past so we do consider him and we do consider him a flight risk, so if you do see him don't approach him and consider him a flight risk too."

The wait is finally over for the families and victims affected by the Cols Stocking Strangler Serial Killings. Julie Slater, Chattahoochee Circuit District Attorney: "The families of the victims of these crimes have been waiting 40 years for justice in this. Eight years for an arrest and trial and 32 years through appeals process and I think that tonight we were able to get justice for those families." 67 yr old Carlton Gary was convicted of three of the nine alleged stocking strangler attacks that targeted elderly women between 1977 and 1978. Seven of the nine were found dead -- raped and strangled with their own stockings. Anonymous: "When all that started happening with the stocking strangler, we slept together in the same bed. I was so worried about her." One anonymous woman traveled all the way from Canada to honor her time as a teenager living with her grandmother who was terrified of the serial killings.
3.1	NAACP Dollar General Shooting	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.	3/16/18, 3/17/18	45 Seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Jessalyn Adams/reporting - A black man is dead and a white suspect is facing murder charges. The Phenix City-Russell County NAACP says the details from the deadly road rage incident in January all point to racism as a cause. Alfonza Seldon/NAACP: "I think the hate began long before it got to Ms. Freeman." The NAACP says witness accounts claim suspect 26 yr old Justin Davidson was yelling racial slurs before shooting 45 yr old Lorenzo Freeman. They are looking to add hate crime charges in addition to the murder charges Davidson is already facing.

3.1	Championship Tickets	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.	1/2/18, 1/3/18	45 Seconds	News 3 Morning, News 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	For local Georgia and Alabama fans, playing for the title is exciting but not surprising. Brice Thompson/President Columbus Chapter of University of Georgia Alumni Association: "I had a lot of confidence going into the year." Joe Bross/Alabama season ticket holder, going to the CFP Championship: "We expect to be there." It's about an hour and 15 minutes from Athens to the Mercedes Benz Stadium and just under three to get there from Tuscaloosa. While fans can save money on travel, they'll have to pay up to see the game. According to secondary market stub hub, the cheapest tickets you can buy right now is just north of twenty two hundred dollars. Joe Bross: "Buying all your tickets is a privilege to me and an opportunity to go see some good football. I just praised the lord that I went to the University of Alabama." Joe Bross served as the Chattahoochee Valley Alabama Club Treasurer for more than 30 years. He has two championship tickets because he owns four Alabama season tickets. According to the Atlanta Journal Constitution, each of the two participating schools receive twenty thousand tickets -- which is 57 percent of the seating inventory. Most of those tickets go to donors and season ticket holders like Bross at face value, which ranges from $375 to 875 but that still leaves 43 percent of seats available. That's where fans like Brice Thompson and college football's RSVP come in. Brice Thompson/President, Columbus Chapter of University of Georgia Alumni Association: "Basically a marketplace where you can go in and buy the right to pay guaranteed face value for guaranteed tickets for your team." If your team makes it to the title, those tickets are yours. If they don't then you're out whatever money you paid to get those reserved tickets. Brice -- who is a certified private wealth advisor - paid for six tickets for a total of about 400 dollars. He sold four of them making a profit of about three hundred dollars while keeping two tickets - which are now valued at a couple thousand. The NC Double makes a nice profit as well on the program. Brice Thompson: "15% to buy the initial RSVP, 15% when I sold a few and then when I used the two that I kept to actually buy tickets it was six and half percent. Either way you slice it, they ought to be able to make some really nice trophies." The RSVP Program along with hospitality packages and a random ticket drawing account for 24% of the seats inside Mercedes Benz.

Matthew Daniels/Manager, Uptown Valet: "Really we're flexible even just any kind of trip where people see the need to take a big group of people to go back and forth to Columbus safely. We'll do it for you." That includes this Monday. Uptown Valet is taking a group of Georgia fans to Atlanta for the National Championship Game between Dawgs and Crimson Tide. Brice Thompson is one of those using the company to get to the game. Brice Thompson/Columbus Chapter President, University of Georgia Alumni Association: "Not having to worry about parking passes and we've go through the weather. Potentially, the president is coming in. A lot easier to put it off the table and enjoy the day." It's not the first time Uptown Valet has handled a large group. Daniels told me the company took several vans to the first Georgia Auburn game, two vans to the Iron Bowl and one van to the SEC Championship. Matthew Daniels/Manager Uptown Valet: "We saw that there really wasn't any kind of business that did this in Columbus. As soon as we get a call we'll book as many vans as we need." Uptown Valet also provides it's service for the Springer Opera House, the trade center, Callaway Gardens and even medical centers in Columbus. Put it like this: The business has come along way from Broadway. Matthew Daniels/Manager, Uptown Valet: "Continue to expand the subtle service. Hopefully own another van or two in the future to where we can have really good flexibility and just do anything that we need to." Daniels said there are still open spots in the van going to the national championship game on Monday. If you're interested in going with them, just message them on facebook.

That's what borkers on Wall Street were screaming and two major plummets in the market this week. A local financial expert at Raymond James Financial Services says the dramatic drops come when there are more sellers than buyers sweating in the market. But as scary as those drops seem -- he says they're long overdue. Murray Solomon, Raymond James Financial Services: "I have a yo-yo on my desk, and it reminds me that the markets go up and they usually come down." In fact, Murray Solomon told be whenl walked into his office, the dow was up 56 points but in just 20 minutes it was down again more than 200. He says drops are normal. In fact, it's more worrying without them. Solomon: "What's abnormal about this market is it's relentlessly gone up tow years without any breathing, without any drops." He adds many thins contributed to more than one thousand point plummets this weeks like potential for rising interest rates. He says the main thing to remember is for stocks - the pride is in the patience. Solomon: "We're investing for our retirement, we're investing to send our children to school, we're investing to improve our quality of life. Those are long term commitments." In fact he says there are benefits to momentary slumps.

I'm being told by developmental authority representatives there's so much fun... for just about everyone to enjoy. Scott Malone, President of Developmental Authority of LaGrange: "Ropes course, miniature bowling, miniature golf, an arcade, ziplines and those type of things." That was Scott Malone, President of the Developmental Authority of LaGrange. He says one of Great Wolf Lodge's amenities folks appear to be excited about is the water park. Scott Malone: "The only thing that's not necessarily open to the public.. to use the water park you have to stay in the hotel." For those interested in just hanging out at Great Wolf... Scott Malone: "the rest of the entertainment facility which is about 150,000 to 200,000 sq ft is open to the public. You don't have to stay in the hotel to do that.. but once you're inside it you do pay the activities that are there."

Once again the same debates flood social media and legislators desks. Amongst them -- should teachers be given the right to carry guns on campus? Keith Lunsford, Muscogee County grandfather: "If a person thinks that they can defend... keep my granddaughter from getting killed, great." Wend Young, Muscogee County mom: "How do we know a teacher's not going to turn around... I just don't think it's going to be a good idea." One local school board member tells News 3 he believes there is an even more pressing security threat. Why there aren't armed security guards on every local campus? Frank Myers, Muscogee County School Board member: "I think every parent in this school district... every school in Muscogee County doesn't have that right now and they should." An official statement from the school district following the Florida shooting says all local schools are evaluated for "need and risk" before assigning a resource officer. Meanwhile, our local parents have their own ideas on how their children -- and yours -- can be kept safe. Keith Lunsford says he's already started raising awareness to buy door jammers to donate to schools in need. Keith Lunsford: "I'm from the 80s and growing up ... protect our kids campaign." Wendy Young agrees and says she believes more resources should be put into supporting students' emotional needs. Wendy Young: "Behaviors in children that you're seeing... believe what they say and investigate it."

While the cause is still unknown, Columbus fire and EMS are no strangers to the area. No less than 13 fires have sparked - big and small - here in the last year. The fire marshal says this is a regular hot spot for the homeless. Fire Marshal Ricky Shores, Cols Fire and EMS: "A great deal of those are fires that are set on accident, you know by a homeless person that maybe is trying to keep warm. They wind up going to sleep, you know, or just leaving it because they don't care it's not their property, and you end up with either a porch fire that we're able to quickly contain of the whole structure gets gutted out. So obviously the main danger is that they can become a victim of their own criminal activity."

Imagine losing 20 years of memories in a matter f minutes. That's the reality for Chris Jefferies and his family. "Some things are just irreplaceable, but we will do the best we can." Wednesday afternoon's severe weather struck his home in the form of suspected lightning strick. Jefferies says neighbors heard a loud boom saw smoke billowing from the family's home and called him. But driving here, you don't know it happened so fast, I mean I got the phone call I was here in 5 minutes and half of the house was gone." Jefferies and his wife were worried about their three dogs. They call them their fur babies. The couple was relieved that the dogs were rescued, by neighbors and a man they have never bet Brooks Cross. "By the time I got here, somebody was already breaking down the door." Cross says he saw smoke and felt compelled to ehlp. "It just felt like the right thing to do." I'm getting frequent updates on this story here in Richland. I just wrapped up a conversation with the Director of Public Works. That man's name is Jerry Irvin. He tells me, he personally test the water in the city five times a week. He says two times out of those five... the results are sent to a lab. He says he wants the public to rest assure the water is safe to use and drink. He says that's because over the course of more than two and half years none of those results have been negative." Jerry Irvin spoke to new 3 about the water concerns. He says for at least 10 years, customers were paying $65 at a flat rate for their water bill. Tuesday he explained, the state allows the city to use 300,000 gallons a month. He says for quite some time, the city has been using more than 500,000 gallons. Irvin says in order to fix this problem, the city has decided to bill each home individually for its water use. City Councilor, Kenneth Josey, says the city took out a million dollar loan three years ago to improve the quality fo water. He says customers were never charged. He says now the city has exhausted all of its funds to pay the loan and this is another reason some folks could see increases. Sarah Jackson: "I tried to drink it but I can drink it. We have to buy bottle water every week. Sarah Jackson has lived in Richland more than 60 years. She says her ill has jumped up to more than $100. She doesn't drink the water because according to her, it has a yellow tione. One of ther concerns if a loan was taken out to improve the water quality, why does it still appear to be tinted? "Somebody need to help Richland."

The first step is obtaining a building permit from the city. The second step is transforming this land into someone's new home. According to the PC Board of Realtors, there's opportunity across the city. Eleven new homes inside the city are on the way after Lammons says a record number of building permits were sought out last week. Chris Lammons: "2017 January through the same time period last year there were only 14 pulled in the entire time and last week there were 11 pulled in one week so, it looks like there's some good progress being made with residential development."

"My last year, y senior year is when I started dabbing in drugs. I started living a party lifestyle where I am going to the clubs, drinking a lot." Michelle says the first drug she ever tried was ecstasy. "And then came cocaine. So I was doing cocaine quite often. It wasn't an every day thing for me back then. I tws more of a weekend thing. I was really living a double life where I though I could just dab in it a little bit and have fun, but still be your normal mom... just staring a career." Michelle worked direct sales for seven years and was really good at it but she couldn't shake her habit. "So I went from ecstasy and cocaine, and then meth and pain pills came along and that was it for me. Those two alone destroyed my life. I was doing any and everything I could to get high. I was... They'd take the winding road to their second property to give their kids space to play, but this would not be any ordinary day. They were about to stumble upon a message that had been waiting to be read for nearly forty years. Emily Bland: "We were just venturing through the woods looking for bottles to make the kids a wind chime, and in one of the bottles my husband found was a rolled up piece of paper in it. I thought it was just paper off the bottle itself. So who set out to communicate with the finders of the bottle? And what message was he trying to send? He left a clue. Emily Bland: "His Majesty Servant, James H. Fort, Captain of the vessel Squaring, laid out of the port of Columbus, GA, did with proper pomp and circumstance launch this bottle in the waters of Chattahoochee River near Lake Point state park in Eufaula, Alabama." But still there were more questins than there were answers. Christopher Bland: "We would like to find out who Mr. Fort is. It's very interesting...something that long ago still in the shape that it's in." Meanwhile, the Blands' four kids, especially their girls, Madisyn, Madalyn and Chrislyn are having fun letting their imaginations run wild. Madisyn: "I think he was a captain." Chrislyn: "I think he was a captain." Madalyn: "I think he was a king." Whoever he was...the Blands intend to find out. Emily Bland: "And it's asking us to return it to the city clerk's office." Christopher Bland: "It's really cool to find a treasure like that and to able to share it with other people." While Dad may be quick to share the family's hidden treasure, one Bland family member is keeping it a secret. Madalyn Bland: "I didn't tell nobody at my school. That's Sergeant Clayton Bryant with the LaGrange Police Department. He's talking about his police K9, Rik, a veteran of six years with Lagrange PD. "He would try to walk and fall." Bryant says about two weeks ago Rik was diagnosed with cancer, which caused him to grow weak - and stop eating. Sgt. Clayton Bryant: "Very, very fortunate he's responded to medicine the way that he has." Bryant says Rik recently underwent a treatment that cost about two hundred dollars. Doctors say Rik will need to undergo more than a dozen other treatments to keep him on this healthy track. Ashley Garrett, Lagrange: As you can see, Rik appears to be full of life but he's been through some struggles in the recent days. His handler who tells me some very memorable moments the two have shared." Sgt. Clayton: "I came to a point where I had over-heated cuz I had all the gear on...it was an extremely hot humid and I literally had to sit down cuz I felt myself blacking out." But then man's best friend stepped in. "As hard as he works he recognized that... he came over and sat down right beside me. His desire to work was out-weighed by his loyalty to me." Bryant's wife is also a k9 handler. The news about Rik hurt her to the core. Officer Wendy Bryant: "These dogs can be used for so many things... than apprehension... Tomlinson started out by touting some of the city's awards and recoginitions - including being named one of the 50 best run cities in America. Then, she moved on to addressing crime concerns -- seemingly the biggest concern voiced by citizens. According to the 2017 crime statistics, the number of murers reached the highest level since 1980 - with 35 people killed last year. However, vilent crimes fell by 13% with an increase in the number or rapes and aggravated assaults. But part one of crimes overall are down 39% putting the city at the lowest level in 33 years with those numbers - Tomlinson maintains crime is not as big of an issue as people think.

I want it to be about the city of Lumpkin... the citizens of Lumpkin." She says since being appointed in 2017, shes been having issues with select council members. This includes having to also fulfill duties of city clerk -- who was fired back in February. "There was no plan B in place...none whatsoever. I was not enen given the opportunity to discuss or particpate in the termination of the city clerk." But the guidelines state the city manager is required to attend all council meetings except for those concerning appointment or terminantion of the city manager. Walker says once the city clerk was let go, her workload increased, dramatically. "It's time to renew contracts. We have a leaf and limbs contract, annual insurance renewal, budget, municipal gas authority contract. There's a lot of stuff on my plate that I need to be working on and I'm having to delay those things... to handle this!"

Exhale. While the decision to smoke may be a personal choice, the effects of lighting up is anything but... It's a public discussin being had in Columbus and across the state. In a new report from the American Lung Association, the state of Georgia lags significantly behind the rest of the country in reducing tobacco use-fueling health concerns for smokers and non-smokers alike. June Deen/American Lung Association: "We know that it's the third leading cause of lung cancer is exposure to second-hand smoke. We know that it aggravates and makes kids sicker, particularly kids with asthma when they're exposed to second hand smoke." And it's not only public policy and health experts like Deen who are concerned. This Columbus mother also shares Deen's concerns. Analiza Pamintuan-Khalil/Columbus resident: "The second hand smoke is very dangerous for other people, especially children. Sometimes, we see drivers that smoke and sometimes we're side by side... on stop sign with them and all the smoke goes into your car-and I have two children. So we just have to kinda stay cognizant to our surroundings." Could we be approaching a smoke-free Columbus in the near future? That is up for debate. Deens says there are things you can do to move the discussion forward. June Deen: "We certainly do need to speak out and we need to be talking to our elected officials and our state representatives."
3.1	Local Flu Related Death	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	1/25/18, 1/26/18	45 seconds, 90 seconds	News 3 Morning, New 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Fever -- coughing -- sore throat -- body aches -- chills -- fatigue Jeff Glover/Columbus resident: "I've been lucky enough where no one in my family has gotten it. I do have somebody I work with, very close to, that got it, and it hit him pretty badly." Lee County Coroner Bill Harris has confirmed two deaths where the flu was a contributing factor. In Muscogee County, Corner Buddy Bryan says five deaths where the victim's family reported flu-like symptoms along with other contributing factors. People are taking notice of effects of influenza. Jeff Glover/Columbus Resident: "It's been one of the toughest flu seasons I have seen - just on how it effects the body." One man tells me he waited in a hospital for hours -- syaing the waiting room was packed. Keith Glover/Columbus resident: "All these people were flu related. They all had on the little masks." The medical community is pleading for people to take precautions and so is the general public. Keith Glover: "People need to stay at hoome if they're sick... Or go to a doctor... Don't get out and socialize. We're just spreading it."

3.1	Cold Weather Death	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	1/8/18, 1/9/18	90 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, New 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Sadly, Monday morning -- Cols recorded it's first weather related death of 2018. Temperatures in the low 30s overnight took the life of a homeless man sleeping along west 10th Street. Local shelters are now working together with the city to look ahead to potentially dangerous drops this weekend. Riley Land, Deputy Director Emergency Mgt Div Cols-Fire & EMS: "What we do is we'll look and say, okay it's gonna be below freezing for more than a day or two, and we know that's eventually going to start wearing down folks that are outside. So they'll go ahead and up ramp and get their shelters open and expand their capacities."
3.1	EAMC Bed Bugs	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	2/21/18, 2/22/18	90 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, New 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Nancy Claridy, Concerned Citizen: "I mean there's a lot of beds over there." She works near the East Alabama Medical Center and she says she's very disturbed by the news - the hospital addressed a bed bug issue. Wednesday - John Atkinson - Marketing and PR Director declined to go on camera but he did provide a news release. In that release, the hospital says the bed bugs incident has required assistance from the hospital's pest control company. Nancy Claridy, "Shocked I mean... that's just like a hospital? Really? Just beyond scary." Claridy adds she was just getting over the hospital's recent flu outbreak. Nancy Claridy: "I did have a niece there three weeks ago with the flu. Luckily, she didn't have to be admitted." In an effort to put the public's mind at ease, Atkinson says bed bugs have been found in five star hotels and resorts and their presence is not determined by the cleanliness of the living conditions where they are found. Claridy says if she had to go to the hospital for any reason, she would not take any chances. "If it was my family, I would be going up there with plastic covered sheet mattress covers, lysol like crazy, try to stay out of the bed as much as possible...sleep in recling chairs if possible." The hospital says it took immediate aggressive steps to eliminate the pests and have continually improved our processes to prevent the spread.
3.1	Smiths Station Ambulances	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	2/1/18, 2/2/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, New 3 Midday, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Until now, folks living in Smiths Station relied on other cities for emergency medical transportation. Now, they have a service of their own. Susie Cooper lives in Smiths Station: "It means success because Smiths Station has grown so large, and so many subdivisions and people so it will save somebody's life." Virginia Wms calls it life saving. "I'm excited about it, because you won't have to wait as long if someone is sick and needs attention, immediate attention, and we feel it could be life saving, because we'll have ambulance service that can get to us sooner." Corene McCoy remembers the time she last called an ambulance. Corene McCoy: "It took a long time, because I was sick, and I didn't know what was going on with me, I wanted help, and I wanted faster service." Chief Deputy Daniel Sexton says it's needs like Corene's that prompted the addition to the fire and rescue services. "Having this truck that is focused on Smiths Station community will hopefully reduce the number of times a situation like that arises." And we're told the equipment inside is some of the best in the industry.

3.1	Umbilical Cord Cut Delay	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	2/28/18, 3/1/18	45 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, New 3 Middy, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Inside the mother, connecting her to her pending bundle of joy is a the umbilical cord. Dr. Robinette King: OB-GYN: "Without the umbilical cord, the placenta attachment to mommy, baby would not be able to survive in utero." From the umbilical cord, baby gets nutrients and oxygen for growth and development. It's usually the proud papa in the delivery room who gets to cut the cord. "Dad is a little anxious, most of the time they're ready to cut the cord, ready to jump in and get their hands in." Now, more and more doctors are saying, let's wait a few seconds. Dr. Robinette King is one of them. "Instead of baby comes out you clamp the cord and cut." Doctors are waiting at least 30 to 60 seconds before clamping and cutting. The practice was already used on pre-term babies, but now full term bithds, those at 37 weeks, are included. The thought behind the delayed placental transfusion is that it increases hemoglobin levels and provides iron reserves in the first 6 to 8 months of life.
3.1	Hospital Merger Impact	5a.m., 6 a.m., 12 p.m., 6 p.m., 11 p.m.,	3/1/18, 3/2/18	90 seconds, 45 seconds	News 3 Morning, New 3 Middy, News 3 Evening Edition, News 3 Nightwatch	Kevin Brown, CEO Piedmont Healthcare said the merger will bring high quality patient centered care from Piedmont. Warren Steele, the board chair of Piedmont Cols Regional said this merger will add value to health care within our community. And doctor HM McFarling III shares his expectations for better health care.
